UNCF BLACK HISTORY MONTH

Since 1976, our nation has celebrated and recognized the contributions of African Americans by observing Black History Month, showing how despite adversity, Black Americans have and continue to make history.

Education has provided one of the main paths forward for Black Americans. UNCF is the lifeblood for more than 50,000 deserving students each year—enabling them to reach prosperity, and fueling better futures for us all.

This year, UNCF celebrates its 80th anniversary—established well ahead of the civil rights changes of the 60s and 70s, far before the Voting Rights Act and prior to the desegregation of schools. This UNCF anniversary provides you an opportunity to make history by extending our legacy, driving progress and empowering our youth to succeed.

Make history during Black History Month 2024. Make a lasting impact on all our futures. Join UNCF—and make your history our history.
